"...our pilgrimage to trout Nirvana will begin anew ..."

PRESIDENT'S FLYBOX

SCOTT
OLSON

ANTICIPATION

It's the time of year when the winter doldrums seem to almost be behind us. It's when the hours of tying flies, cleaning reels and checking out the myriad other things involved in our sport are about to pay off. The opening of the Sierra trout season is almost upon us.

For many of us fly fishers the opening of the Sierra trout season (the last Saturday in April) is something we start anticipating on November 16th each year (the day after closing) even though it is months in the future. And although there are other angling opportunities available in other locations, nothing can quite match the beauty and indescribable grandeur that sets the Sierra apart as the trout fishing venue in California.

So in a few weeks our pilgrimage to trout Nirvana will begin anew with high hopes and the anticipation that accompanies any obsession. Here's hoping you find your favorite stream loaded with willing fish and devoid of other anglers.

Tight lines and fighting fish to all!

Scott Olson, Conejo Valley Fly Fishers, President

Editor's Note: In 2019, Opening Day, aka "Fishmas," is Saturday, April 27, 2019. This is when most waters in Mono County are open to anglers to fish for as many as 5 trout to catch-and-keep per day (Always check local regulations. Some waters have special restrictions. View regulations here - <https://www.wildlife.ca.gov/Regulations>) or call 760-872-1171.

Fly Fishing Article | Charley Beals

*The season is ended. There was not enough of it; there never is." - Nick Lyons**

At some point along my journey I became aware that anglers I fished with who got into a greater volume of larger fish practiced a few things in common:

- Time on the water.
- Knowing when to change the fly.
- Details count.
- Being OK to just "Be"

"Being" or better said, "Being Present" is something you owe yourself while angling and you can only be effective angling if you are "Present." Angling is more than catching. Angling is a delicate balance between art and science that will cleanse your mind and bring a sense of purity and simplicity that is difficult to arrange in our 24/7 world. For that angler who is distracted by a cell phone or some random thought or worry that'll never happen, is better served to stay home and suffer through the endless and feckless news cycle.

Time on the water will teach you when to change the fly – look for clues, they are all around you. Shake the bushes on the stream bed, notice what does or doesn't fly away. Is it small or big? Go to a riffle section and turn over a few flat rocks. Is it a baetis, a stone fly or maybe a caddis? Touch them with your finger, they don't bite. You don't need to know the names just tie on something that looks similar in size then shape then color.

Details count – I prefer fishing nylon tippet, I like the Rio Powerflex Plus, if the water is off color then you can get away with nylon line, if not then you better have some flouro on hand. Flouro can be tricky with knot strength. Nylon is better for Dry Fly presentations because it floats. Use the thinnest tippet you can get away with while still honoring the fish.

Know your knots, Flouro and Nylon – I use a loop knot for all nymph work – the easier to tie is a Perfection Loop, the more effective is the non slip mono loop. For Dry Flies I use the improved clinch. Feel the tippet near the hook, if it's been rubbed against a rock, tree or a row of teeth the you need to re-tie. Do it! If your tippet looks like a curly pig tail either pull to straighten or re tie. It's makes a difference.

Tromping into the streambed like a thirsty heifer will not support your daily fish count. Be gentle – there's strength there. Listen to your heart, it's telling you to spend more time this season with a fly rod in your hand.

CA SPORTFISHING LEAGUE

Protect Pier Fishing – Report Unlawful Local Regulations!

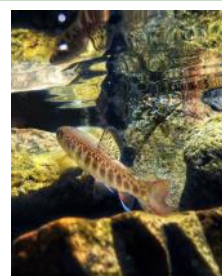

Today, California ranks dead last in fishing participation, despite its vast coastline and thousands of lakes and rivers. This is unacceptable, and illegal regulations are a contributing factor! Please report local abuse by providing us the name of the municipality that is limiting access, gear and manner of take, and provide copies of the regulations or ordinances to info@savefishing.com.

Like the City of Manhattan Beach, local government has been known to limit fishing gear and manner of take, or have imposed outright fishing bans! Together, we can grow access and increase participation in one of California's favorite pastimes, recreational fishing. Thank you for your assistance. READ MORE
